Advisory Business

Advisory Firm

Victoria Capital Management, Inc. (VCM) is an SEC registered investment advisor and is in the primary business of managing portfolios consisting of individual fixed income and equity securities and exchange-traded funds. VCM has been providing investment advisory services since 2000. Diane V. Nugent is the founder and President and has been in the financial services industry since 1986.

Advisory Services

As of December 31, 2017, VCM had $85.1 million in assets under management for Asset Monitoring accounts and $42.9 million in Discretionary accounts.

The firm provides portfolio management services through several strategies. The Growth Equity strategy is an equity only approach that is expected to generate capital appreciation and modest income. The Growth & Income strategy offers a growing stream of income by using a blend of dividend paying equities and fixed income and equity exchange-traded funds. The Target Return strategy consists of four asset allocation portfolios of exchange-traded funds: Conservative, Moderate, Aggressive and Income—all with associated levels of return expectations and related levels of risk.

In addition to individual portfolio management, VCM produces a written quarterly investment perspective (Financial Markets Perspective) and a customized quarterly client letter that informs clients of the firm's investment process and strategy. VCM may also provide ad hoc written communications to educate clients about financial markets. Any publication of reports offered to clients will be provided as part of the advisory services and not for a subscription or fee. VCM maintains a comprehensive website for access to information about the firm at www.victoriacapitalus.com.

Types of Clients

VCM provides investment advisory services to other registered investment advisors, individuals, trusts, foundations and other tax-exempt portfolios and pension and profit-sharing plans such as 401(k), defined benefit, IRA, Roth IRA, SEP IRA and SIMPLE IRAs.

Methods of Analysis and Investment Strategies

The Growth Equity Investment Philosophy reflects our belief that active equity management can produce above-average investment returns for our clients over time. Our approach is based on the analysis of fundamental and technical securities characteristics and general financial market conditions. Investment decisions and forecasts are based on our team's assessment of current fiscal and monetary policy and other economic variables. The psychological aspect of each investment (business philosophy, strategy, attitude, track record and background of top management, for example) can also be as much of a factor as fundamental analysis. An evaluation of a client's current investments is made to ascertain whether or not the fundamental characteristics synchronize with a client's expectations. Since each account is individually managed, the firm's professionals may give advice and/or take action for some clients that may differ from advice given or the timing or nature of action taken for others.

The Growth and Income Investment Philosophy is focused on an actively managed portfolio of both fixed income and equity securities that is expected to provide a reasonable flow of income while capital can be preserved. Portfolio decisions are based on conclusions regarding monetary policy, interest rates and inflation as well as the credit characteristics of non-government debt instruments. Securities are managed based on their current yield, yield to maturity, and duration paying specific attention to any call features that could affect the future income from each investment. Portfolios are diversified by coupon, maturity and quality based upon expectations for achieving individual client objectives. The ability to increase income while maintaining principal will depend on both the direction and level of interest rates over time. In a rising interest rate environment, fixed income exchange traded funds offer the ability to experience rising levels of income as compared with the less attractive fixed interest payments from individual bonds.

The Target Return Investment Approach is based on an analysis of general financial market conditions, the historical returns for various asset classes and the selection of indexed exchange-traded funds to construct portfolios with different risk/reward characteristics. Portfolios are reconstituted periodically to conform to the overall weighting guidelines as determined on a periodic basis. There are four asset allocation portfolio models that are offered at the outset of each client relationship. A model is used for a specific client depending on his or her risk and reward characteristics relative to investment objectives. Over time, recommendations for one portfolio model or another will be made depending on changing client financial circumstances. The selection of exchange-traded funds will consider historical performance and total expense ratios of funds.

VCM evaluates each client's financial circumstances and tolerance for volatility risk. Using an Investment Profile Questionnaire (IPQ), VCM evaluates the investment alternatives that should make the most sense for each client. Client circumstances are periodically evaluated to ensure that the investment strategy being used for portfolio management is appropriate. The firm also evaluates shortfall risk or the risk associated with not achieving long-term investment objectives.

Performance of accounts can vary depending on a variety of factors such as services utilized, brokerage firm selection and restrictions placed by clients on accounts, size of the account, plus several other factors since all accounts are managed in accordance with client's specific goals, objectives and risk profile. Periodically the firm sends clients a Risk Profile update to determine if there has been any change in their tolerance for risk to ensure they are invested appropriately.

Risk of Loss

Investing in securities involves risk. Short-term investment return and principal value can fluctuate because of financial market volatility. While there is risk in all investments, some carry more risk or higher costs than other investments. There is no guarantee that a recommended investment strategy will result in the client's goals being met, nor is there any guarantee of profit or protection from loss. There can be no guarantee of investment results or performance given the inherent characteristics of financial securities. Among individual securities there are different types of risk that are enumerated as follows:

Bonds, generally government and corporate, have various types of risk. While government bonds are considered the safest investment among bonds, there is the risk that, when interest rates rise or fall the prices of bonds can move in an inverse direction. Even though investors can expect to get all their principal back when a bond matures, there is no guarantee of a favorable investment return when interest received is reinvested in the bond market. Bond exchange traded funds offer diversification and the ability to experience rising income distributions in a rising interest rate environment.

High yield bonds are considered to have higher business risk and a higher default risk than higher rated bonds. These bonds also have a higher yield and can have more market volatility due to the potential for missed interest payments or, in the worst case a default on both interest and principal. Generally, fixed income securities can fluctuate in price due to changes in inflation expectations, changes in monetary policy, the timing of the business cycle and the ability for the bond market to absorb the sale of a large amount of securities. Interest income and the return of principal are only guaranteed by the issuing entity. If that entity fails to pay income or principal its existence may be questionable and little if any investment may be recovered. High yield bond exchange traded funds offer greater protection against business risk by holding a diversified portfolio of high yield bonds.

Common stocks represent ownership in individual companies and can be good long-term investments as stock prices can rise when company profits grow and dividends are increased. Due to the unknown aspects of various types of business risk, owning a diversified portfolio of common stocks can reduce a client's exposure to individual business risk. Common stock exchange traded funds offer broad diversification and the ability to target various asset class exposure.

Foreign company investments can also be risky as they are subject to the economic situation of the countries where they are domiciled. Swings in currency values relative to the U.S. dollar can also benefit or undermine the stock prices of such companies. Exchange traded funds that are weighted in foreign securities can also offer broad diversification and reduced levels of volatility of risk.

While diversification through an asset allocation strategy is a useful technique that can help to manage overall portfolio risk and volatility, there is no certainty or assurance that such a diversified portfolio will enhance overall return or outperform one that is not diversified. An investment made according to one of these asset allocation models neither guarantees a profit nor prevents the possibility of loss.

There are tax consequences for short-term trading (less than one year) wherein capital gains are taxed as ordinary income. Additionally, some states also tax capital gains at regular income tax rates.

Fees and Compensation

Investment advisory services are furnished on a continuous basis according to each client's specific circumstances, goals and objectives. VCM fees are based on a percentage of the total market value of assets in the investment account at the end of each calendar quarter. Currently, fees are 1% for all assets under management. For clients with assets under management of more than $2 million, fees are negotiable. Fees may be negotiated on a basis that differs from these schedules if circumstances warrant.

Fees for advisory services will be calculated based upon the aggregate market value of all assets under management within the client's account, including allocations to cash. If a client requests the retention of one or more securities, there are no fees charged on those securities. There is also no fee charged on any margin balances. The quarterly fee is calculated by taking one fourth of the annual fee based on the ending quarterly market value of the account. VCM may group accounts of a client together for fee calculations. In the event of termination during a quarterly period, adjustments in advisory fees are made, whenever appropriate.

Investment advisory agreements between VCM and its clients can be terminated at any time by the client. However, VCM customarily may terminate upon a written 30-day advance notice to the client. In certain instances, clients may require in their agreements that advance written notice be provided by both parties. There are no other termination fees.

In the situation where VCM is acting as a sub-advisor, fees will be determined by the primary advisor for each client. The primary advisor can accept the fee structure offered by VCM or can substitute a different fee subject to an estimate of the advisor's costs for providing additional financial services. In those circumstances where VCM does not have investment discretion and provides model recommendations, an asset monitoring advisory fee will be charged based on an advisor's assets that are being managed according to the VCM models.

Performance-Based Fees

VCM does not engage in the utilization of performance-based fees, which are or can be based on capital gains or total return of the client account.

Disciplinary Information

VCM must disclose material facts about any legal or disciplinary event that is material to a client's evaluation of the advisory business or of the integrity of its management personnel.

VCM has no disciplinary history.

Other Financial Industry Activities and Affiliations

The firm has sub-advisory agreements with Fremont Financial Advisors, Inc. and Redhawk Wealth Advisors, Inc. that involves providing qualified clients with advisory services consistent with those offered to other VCM clients. Fremont Financial Advisors, Inc. receives a portion of the advisory fees paid by their clients. VCM receives a portion of the advisory fees paid by the clients of Redhawk Wealth Advisors, Inc. In addition, VCM offers investment models through the Folio Institutional Program. Through this program, other investment advisors and their respective clients have access to these models.

Code of Ethics:

VCM maintains a Code of Ethics that sets forth standards of conduct expected of advisory personnel; requires compliance with state securities laws; and, addresses conflicts that arise from personal trading by advisory personnel.

In summary, VCM's Code of Ethics establishes rules of conduct for all access persons of VCM and is designed to govern personal securities' trading activities in the accounts of access persons. The Code of Ethics is based upon the principle that VCM and its access persons owe a fiduciary duty to VCM clients to conduct their affairs, including their personal securities transactions, in such a manner as to avoid (i) serving their own personal interests ahead of clients, (ii) taking inappropriate advantage of their position within the firm, and (iii) any actual or potential conflicts of interest or any abuse of their position of trust and responsibility. The Code of Ethics is designed to ensure that the high ethical standards long maintained by VCM continue to be applied. The purpose of the Code of Ethics is to preclude activities that may lead to or give the appearance of conflicts of interest, insider trading and other forms of prohibited or unethical business conduct. The excellent name and reputation of our firm continues to be a direct reflection of the conduct of each access person. Clients may request a copy of the Code of Ethics by calling VCM at (843) 342-3044.

Personal Trading

The policy of VCM is that officers, employees and their immediate families are required to execute transactions in the securities recommended to clients in the same program that includes the recommended transactions for clients' accounts. Additionally, all employee portfolio statements are monitored by VCM and are managed in accordance with stated investment objectives. Compliance is tracked daily and monitored on a quarterly basis through review of personal securities reports.

Brokerage Practices

The firm does not take custody of money nor securities in advisory accounts. In placing orders for the purchase and sale of securities, the firm's professionals consider several factors including the nature of the security being traded, execution, clearance, settlement, and the ability to implement the transactions at all where a large block is involved. Clients are notified by the custodian via email of all trades if desired and maintain electronic access to their accounts via a username and a password known only to the client.

Costs and benefits have been considered in selecting brokerage firms to execute orders including no or low cost, custodial, administrative and retirement plan services, as well as usage of computer and telecommunication services/equipment for up-to-date sophisticated computerized reports and comprehensive research information. When a client directs use of a broker for an account, then the firm may not be able to negotiate as competitive a commission rate, participate in block trades, or average price trades thus possibly negatively affecting net prices compared to the firm's other accounts. The firm is under no obligation to compensate any brokerage firm for research, reporting or computer services/equipment and utilizes these factors in determining broker/custodian relationships.

Soft Dollar Practices

VCM does not receive any form of compensation from brokerage or custodian firms in the form of products or services that are paid for in "soft dollars". Brokers/custodians are suggested based on minimum commissions consistent with record keeping services provided to VCM and its clients. There are no soft dollar relationships between VCM and brokers/custodians.

VCM understands its duty for best execution and considers all factors in making recommendations to clients. While VCM may not always obtain the lowest commission rate, VCM believes that the rate is reasonable in relation to the value of the brokerage services provided to the firm and to clients.

Review of Accounts

All portfolios managed by VCM are under continuous review utilizing both the latest technology and access to accounts at the custodian broker as well as the maintenance of one in-house portfolio management system that tracks and proof individual account records. Each account's transactions are proofed daily to in-house systems. Deviations in value are resolved with the custodian as appropriate. Monthly statements are also reviewed for accuracy and tracked for portfolio return and variability. Clients have electronic access to their portfolios through the custodian on a real-time basis. In most cases, portfolio strategy is implemented through block purchases and sales of equity and fixed income securities. At the end of each quarter, clients are provided with a custom analysis of their portfolio(s) as well as an economic and financial market update.

Investment objectives are reviewed annually and can be changed with a written notice at the client's discretion. It should be noted that all investment decisions are made in accordance with the guidelines and restrictions established for each account. The accounts are continuously monitored to ensure guidelines and restrictions are followed.

Account investment activity is monitored weekly. All client holdings are reviewed at a minimum of monthly for suitability based upon client objectives and VCM's investment strategy. Performance of accounts is monitored monthly. Diane Nugent reviews the accounts weekly, while Tom Nugent and Diane Nugent conduct quarterly and annual account reviews. The firm's policy is to assign no more than a reasonable number of client accounts to a portfolio manager based upon time and complexity constraints.

Client Referrals and Other Compensation

In the event the firm should pay cash referral fees, the referral agreement and the related activities will be in compliance with Rule 206(4)-3 of the Investment Advisors Act of 1940. Rule 206(4)-3 specifies certain standards that must be met by an investment advisor prior to the payment of a cash fee, directly or indirectly, for a client solicitation or referral.

Custody

VCM does not take possession of securities or cash. All client assets are placed with an independent custodian in their designated account. VCM requests written permission to make trades in client accounts and to deduct quarterly fees in arrears.

Investment Discretion

VCM requires full discretion for account management. At the outset of a relationship, VCM will present an investment program for client approval. After approval, VCM will implement that program in a timely way. If there is to be an overall change in client objectives or portfolio strategy, VCM will seek verbal or written client approval.

Voting Client Securities

VCM does not vote client proxies. Voting is a responsibility of each client. Clients will receive proxy materials from the custodian. However, VCM will provide some basic guidance for the voting of a proxy upon request.

Financial Information

An investment advisor must provide financial information if a threshold of fee prepayments is met; there is a financial condition likely to impair the ability to meet contractual commitments; or, a bankruptcy within the past ten years. VCM does not have any disclosure items in this section.

Anti-Money Laundering Policy

The policy of this firm is to prohibit and actively prevent money laundering and any activity that facilitates money laundering or the funding of terrorist or criminal activities by complying with all applicable requirements under the Bank Secrecy Act (BSA) and its implementing regulations. All employees are required to read and be familiar with this policy and the designated AML officer will participate in educational programs on AML updates on an annual basis.

Education and Business Background

VCM requires all portfolio managers to have at least an accredited undergraduate college degree and/or strong experience in related areas (such as investment, business and financial analysis). All portfolio managers are required to pass the Series 65 within 90 days of hire.
